Petsafe Simply Clean Automatic Litter Box Review

How it Works:

The Petsafe Simply Clean Automatic Litter Box constantly rotates (at one rotation per hour) to shift the litter around. After the cat does its business, the clumps get shifted continuously with the litter until they make contact with a conveyor that carries them to a hopper lined with a plastic bag (any plastic bag will do). There are no moving parts (therefore sensors are not required to detect your cat's movement) and the unit will continue to rotate while your cat does its business without the risk of getting its claws caught. When the plastic bag gets full, simply take it out and replace it with a new one.

Pros:

- Low initial cost.
- Low operating costs: only plastic grocery bags and any clumping litter.
- No moving rake means more safety for your cat.

Cons:

- If your cat has soft feces, they may break into smaller and smaller pieces with the machine's rotation, and stay in the box instead of getting picked up by the conveyor. Tip: Use the hardest clumping litter you can find to prevent clumps from breaking apart.
- Litter can get caught in the machine (turning wheel and/or the motor), resulting in stalling or grinding, which may require the machine to be taken apart and cleaned thoroughly and then reassembled.

Some Say:

- Some people complain about the noise being loud, while others say that it's negligible. Tip: get a wall-timer (for cheap from any department store) to only operate the litter box several times a day, and/or only in the day time, if you find the noise too loud.

Comments:

It would seem that people that have used this machine either loves it or hates it. I personally haven't had much problems with mine aside from having to manually scoop out some of the broken up clumps once in a while. I still like my Litter Robot best though as I can truly take the hand-off approach with it, because it works as it should with no hiccups.
